

A local effect?

Third sector support at a local level for young people considered NEET in Scotland

Charlotte Zealley, PhD Candidate in Social Policy

In collaboration with CTSI

Funded by Scottish Graduate School of Social Science

THE UNIVERSITY
of EDINBURGH

Why young people? (16-25)

Pre-pandemic – stubborn youth unemployment rates

Post-pandemic - economic inactivity?

Long-term scarring effects

Why third sector employability provision?

Multi-layered and complex employability landscape

Third sector organisations involved in welfare-to-work market

Less policy understanding of smaller TSOs providing programmes at local level

Aims & Outcomes

- Analyse the contribution of TSOs to employability support provision at the local level (for 16-25y/o)
- Understand the opportunities and barriers for TSOs in providing employability support.
- Understand young people's experiences of third sector employability provision.

Benefits to Clackmannanshire organisations

- Outsider perspective.
- Insight into how young people experience employability support.
- Articulate TSO impact in this policy area to decision-makers & policy makers e.g. via policy brief.
- ?

Research timeline

Final things

Thank you to all of you who have already been involved in supporting the research

c.zealley@sms.ed.ac.uk

Please get in touch if you or your organization are interested in being involved in this research – either as interviewees or to discuss being one of the case study TSOs

THE UNIVERSITY
of EDINBURGH